

THE brand new purpose-built livestock mart at Crymych held its first trading day last Wednesday.

With the official opening at Parc Gwynfryn scheduled for September 7th, and everything ready to go, the mart owners decided to get trading going again during this month.

The old mart site was sold by owners, the Crymych Market Hall Company, to Pembrokeshire County Council for £600,000. The old site is being developed for extra-care housing and a new health centre.

Said the Market Hall Company's Brian Jones: "We have reinvested all that money, plus quite a lot more, to create this new state of the art market. It is twice the size of the old site. We have been able to build it exactly as we want it and we have all the mod cons."

New facilities include internet access for mart operators J.J. Morris; plus easy facilities for wheel washing and for pressure washing all vehicles.

"We have developed the site to make it much easier for everyone to comply with all the regulations and we have plenty of space," said Mr. Jones.

Dyfan Davies, of mart operators J. J. Morris, said: "It is an excellent site, and really is state of the art, new and purpose built with all the facilities needed in a modern mart. We applaud the committee for reinvesting all the money from the old site into the new centre and hope the local community will back the venture."

The mart is currently held fortnightly on Wednesdays.
